SUNDAY'S SERVICE FEATURES COMMUNION, CHOIR

The communion service this Sunday will be especially meaningful both in person and via livestream because our virtual choir will sing their anthem: And Can It Be. The choir is accompanied by our Director of Music Ministries Yoojin Muhn on the piano and Donna Hess on our church organ. The organist and all the singers were recorded individually by our sound room team and blended by Yoojin. The choir is already working on the next anthem: Amazing Grace.

NEW BOOK BASED ON LIVESTREAM BIBLE STUDIES

The day after VCC suspended all in-church ministries back in March, our Pastors began a series of week-day livestream Bible studies that continued for all 12 weeks of the shut-down. Pastor Kevin has now turned two of those lessons into the newest book in the VCC library. This book asks two challenging questions: Can you articulate your theology of salvation? And, is it Biblical?

be sure enough of what we believe to be able to articulate our theology of salvation as part of our outreach to the lost. But before we share our theology we have the responsibility to test it against the truth of God's word. By stating his own theology of salvation and demonstrating that it is Biblical, Pastor Kevin gives us an example how to test and articulate our own understanding of God's Word. This is available in the literature rack.

The book explains that we all have a theology and we should

VOTE ON NEW MEMBERS AT QUARTERLY MEETING, SEPTEMBER 23

VCC's third quarterly meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, September 23, at 5:00 pm. The meeting will actually provide a business and ministry update for two quarters because our second quarterly meeting was canceled due to the COVID shutdown. A quorum of the membership is required to hold the meeting, so members are urged to attend.

In addition to the financial report and the reports from various ministries, the members present will vote on the four candidates for membership introduced in this article. Anyone interested can make an appointment through the church office to speak with Pastor Kevin about membership.

Beth Hopkirk started attending when VCC was able to open up for services in June because she was so missing attending church. Beth said that God led her to VCC and she has learned more in the last three months than in her whole life as a Christian.

Beth was born in Indiana, grew up in southern California, and lived all over California until she married Bruce, a Tucson native. The couple has lived in Tucson for 27 years, now in the Rancho Vistoso area. For most of her working life she was a secretary or administrative assistant. She met her husband while transcribing his court reporting records.

Beth has two children and two grandchildren. Her daughter and granddaughter live in Tucson. Her son and grandson live in Gilbert.

Noel and Elizabeth Johnson saw a VCC ad promising traditional services and were thrilled.

Beth was born in Baltimore, raised in Valparaiso, IN, and lived most recently in San Clemente, CA. Before retiring, she was a speech/language pathologist in the schools. She enjoys making one of a kind cards and upcycling small items to sell with the proceeds benefitting the International Justice Mission.

Noel was born in La Crescenta, CA, but settled in San Clemente where he was a U.S. History teacher who also coached football and track. He enjoys walking and reading historical non fiction.

Noel and Beth now live at Del Webb in Dove Mountain. Married 13 years, between them they have five children and ten grandchildren, most living in California with one family living in northern Virginia near Washington DC.

Christine Todd moved to Tucson in 2018 from Florida. She had taken a fall with injuries when her daughter, who owned a rental home in Sun City, suggested she move here. She reports that she just loves it—the mountains, the desert, having the church so close to her.

She has a daughter living in Tucson and a son who still resides in Florida. She is especially proud of her grandchildren, her daughter's son here in Tucson, and her son's two daughters one a recent graduate of the Coast Guard Academy and the other studying to be a vet.

Before she retired, she worked with her husband in his insurance business. Christine is also an artist, she taught commercial art and did commission work and is now getting back to her art.
